Working Together

WDKX and the Rhinos are teaming up to make the game of soccer fun and exciting.

When Andrew A. Langston was growing up in Georgia, he used to caddie at a local golf course. He observed how the men would swing the club, chip around the greens and line up their putts to finish the hole out. To this day, Langston uses that power of observation to help his golf game (he's a scratch golfer), and teach a very important lesson to today's youth.

Langston, owner of Rochester radio station WDKX-FM, is a firm believer that sports has a positive effect on youth. That's why he is excited that professional soccer is back in town, and he wholeheartedly supports the Rochester Raging Rhinos of the American Professional Soccer League.

"I'm glad that the Rhinos are here in Rochester," says Langston. "It's another sporting and entertainment alternative for the kids in the summertime. The lesson I try to tell the kids is if you watch a game long enough, then you can do it. I really believe that with all of the kids playing soccer in the area, the city of Rochester will embrace the Rhinos and welcome pro soccer back."

Langston, who named his radio station after Frederick Douglass, Martin Luther King and Malcolm X, - WDKX - is a firm believer that giving back to the community is priority number one for all of his businesses, especially the radio station. After 22 years on the air, WDKX is a leader among the local media in providing community support in Rochester.

"I love when the different communities of this area mix together in an atmosphere of fun and partnership," continues Langston. "Soccer is a world-wide sport, the one game in the world that really brings everyone together for the good of the game. I know that kids of all races and backgrounds will be attending Rhino games this summer. More importantly, the Rhinos are making a commitment back to the community by reaching out with their players and staff by holding clinics and games for the kids. It's another outlet in the city for kids to use their energy in a positive way."

WDKX and the Rhinos will partner this summer in many projects aimed at youth soccer and the involvement of people of all colors. Soccer is a team sport, and what better game to show that if you work together, good things will happen.

"Everyone can learn to play - if you listen, practice and keep the mind and body in shape, only positive things will come from the experience," says Langston. "The players on the Rhinos, they know that practice and positive thoughts only help their game. That is what they need to teach the kids."

WDKX and the Rhinos are teaming up to make the game of soccer fun and exciting. Working together to make the Rochester community a better place to live.

VICE-PRESIDENT/GENERAL MANAGER

Chris Economides

Chris Economides returns to the game of professional soccer in his hometown as Vice-President and General Manager of the Rhinos. Economides has teamed with Steve Donner and Frank DuRoss as owners of the A-League expansion franchise, and he brings to the team a soccer background and ownership experience.

Economides previously was co-owner of the Kansas City Attack of the indoor NPSL for two seasons, 1991-92 and 1992-93. The Attack captured the NPSL championship in 1992-93, finishing a successful regular season and defeating Cleveland 3-2 in the finals before 12,000 in Kemper Arena.

A native of Rochester, Chris graduated from MCC and East Ridge High School. He has owned various restaurants in the area while pursuing his soccer dream. Chris, his wife Donna and their two sons are active in youth soccer, hockey and baseball.

HEAD COACH

Pat Ercoli

Guiding the Rhinos in their inaugural season of A-League play is Pat Ercoli, a 37-year-old native of Toronto who is no stranger to Rochester soccer fans. Ercoli starred for the Rochester Lancers of the NASL for three seasons (1978-80), where his hard work and tenacious play made him a fan favorite. He will bring that same philosophy to the Rhinos as he prepares the expansion club for its first season.

Ercoli began his professional soccer career with Toronto Italia NASL in 1976 before moving to the Toronto Castors the following season, winning a championship. While playing the next three seasons with the Lancers, Ercoli adopted the indoor game as well, playing for the New York Arrows of the MISL. Ercoli also played with Detroit, Bakersfield and Baltimore in the MISL before closing his ten-year professional career with the Cleveland Force. He captured three MISL division championships and one overall league title while with Baltimore.

Since his retirement from the pro game, Ercoli has lived in Rochester with his wife Karen and four children while entering private business. He kept active in soccer by coaching youth leagues and has spent time as an assistant coach with Finger Lakes Community College and Monroe Community College.

ASSISTANT COACH

Frank Odoi

Former Lancer Frank Odoi rejoins teammate Pat Ercoli in the Rhinos first season of A-League play as assistant coach. A popular soccer figure in the city of Rochester, Odoi played nine seasons with the Lancers from 1970 through 1978, helping Rochester to the NASL championship in 1970. The native of Ghana, Africa has played against such stars as Pele (Brazil), Johann Cruyff (Holland), Eusebio (Portugal), George Best (England) and Franz Beckenbauer (Germany).

During his 18-year pro career

Odoi began his professional career in Ghana, where he played for the National Team and represented Ghana in the 1964 Tokyo Olympics. He was selected as the best player in Africa in 1965 as Ghana captured the African Cup. Drafted by the Washington Whips of the NASL in 1968, Odoi came to the United States in 1968 and played for the Whips that season before moving to the Syracuse Scorpions in 1969. Odoi was the Lancers' M.V.P. for the 1974 and 1975 seasons, playing both the forward and mid-field positions.

Odoi recently was assistant soccer coach at Brockport State, and he has coached many championship youth soccer teams in the area during the past years.

RULES OF THE GAME

THE LINE-UP - The official starting line-up must be submitted one hour before game time, with the starting 11 listed first and then the substitutes. Players include the goalkeeper, the defense (sweeper, stopper, backs, marking back), midfielders and forwards (wing, striker).

TIME - The game is 90 minutes total, with two 45 minute halves, running time. The clock begins at 0:00 and climbs to 90:00. After any scored goal the referee is to stop the time immediately and restart the time on the ensuing kick-off. If the regulation game time ends in a tie, a winner is determined by a shoot-out.

SHOOT-OUT - To break a tie at the end of regulation play, each side takes five attempts in a one-on-one confrontation between a shooter and a goalkeeper. The shooter begins with the ball at the 30-yard line and the goalkeeper starts at his goal line. After the referee blows his whistle, the shooter has five seconds to score on the goalie. Unlike a penalty kick, a shooter may advance the ball forward before shooting and a goalkeeper can move off his goal line. After five attempts if the result is still a tie, the shoot-out goes into sudden death. Meaning, that the next team to score and to stop their opponent from matching their goal wins.

SUBSTITUTIONS - A team is allowed to substitute three field players and one goalkeeper during the game. Once a player has been substituted, he may not return to the game. If a player is injured and his team has used all three of their substitutions, he cannot be replaced with a substitute and the team must play a man down the rest of the game.

FOULS - Each time a player is charged with a violation of the Laws of the Game, resulting in either a direct or indirect free kick awarded to the opposing team, he shall be charged with a foul. Cautions (yellow cards) and ejections (red cards) are recorded as fouls. At the referees discretion, he may elect not to call a foul if the receiving team has an advantage on the play.

INDIRECT AND DIRECT

FREE KICKS - A direct free kick is awarded for a foul such as pushing, holding, or tripping. An indirect free kick is awarded for infractions such as offsides, obstruction, and dangerous play. On a direct kick a player is allowed to score, however on an indirect kick the ball must be touched by another player before it crosses the goal line. A referee signals when a kick is indirect by raising his hand straight up until the ball makes contact with another player.

OFFSIDES - Offsides occurs when a player without the ball is between the last defender and the opposition goal. The play is whistled dead when offsides occurs.

Offsides is not considered a foul, but is a team statistic. Calling offsides is primarily the responsibility of the referees assistants (linesmen). This call is subject to the referees discretion more than any other call in soccer.

SHOTS - A shot is defined as any attempt which is taken clearly with the intent to score and is directed so that it enters the goal; could have entered the goal if it had not been prevented from doing so; has traveled past the goal in close proximity to the goal if it had not been prevented from doing so. A shot can be generated by any body part other than the hand or arm. A cross or centering pass is not a shot. A goalkeeper who intercepts a cross is not credited with a save.

GOALS - A goal is scored when the whole ball has passed over the whole of the goal line, between the goal posts and under the crossbar, provided it has not been thrown, carried or intentionally propelled by hand or arm, by a player of the attacking team, except in the case of the goalkeeper, who is in his own penalty area. When a player propels the ball into his own team's goal, regardless of the original intent (back pass, bad clearance), a goal is awarded to the opposing team. The goal is not credited to an individual, it is recorded as an "own goal". If a shot from an attacking player is deflected or mishandled into the goal by the goalkeeper or deflected by a defender, the attacking player is awarded the goal.

ASSISTS - The player whose pass leads directly to the scoring of a goal shall be credited with an assist. If a goal is scored after a series of uninterrupted passes by the attacking team, the next-to-last pass is the assist. Only one assist shall be awarded per goal scored.

Marinaro Sweeps Back into The Outdoor Game

Indoor Legend Leads Rhinos Defense

By Justin Roy

Rhinos' team captain, Hector Marinaro, is no stranger to adversity. Earlier this year, he and his Cleveland Crunch teammates were down two games to none against the Kansas City Attack in the indoor National Professional Soccer League's championship series. Marinaro saw his team's regular season success, and his league scoring title, going to waste. All of the Crunch's achievements that season were going to be meaningless statistics if they couldn't find a way to turn the series around and win the championship.

Of course, the burden of doing so fell onto Marinaro's back. Granted, he was surrounded by arguably one of the most talented rosters in professional soccer in this country, indoor or outdoor. However, when you are the second all-time leader on the United States Indoor Soccer scoring list and have played for 13 seasons, your fans, coaches and teammates look to you to bring them back. Hector Marinaro knew that was the case, and he went to work.

The Rhinos' sweeper led Cleveland to four straight victories over the Attack and won the NPSL championship. So when he sees the faces of his teammates in Rochester, Hector is more than familiar with their hungry, desperate look. Regardless of the fact that it is their first season, Marinaro's experience makes him a natural leader on the backline for the Rhinos.

Marinaro knows that nothing less than a championship will satisfy his teammates, the fans, and himself. However, he knows that his role with the Raging Rhinos is a different one than in Cleveland.

His goal-scoring prowess is what has made him an indoor legend, yet his role in Rochester is that of a defender. "In Cleveland,

I am paid to put the ball into the back of the net," remarked Marinaro, discussing his different roles. "Here, my job is to stop opponents from scoring goals. So I have to approach the game from a completely different perspective, and let my teammates concentrate on scoring."

Hector's Cleveland teammates who have joined him with the Rhinos are the ones who have had the scoring burden placed on them. Forwards Zoran Karic and Doug Miller, along with midfielder Tommy Tanner, are a trio of talented attackers whose one-on-one skills have helped them find the goal numerous times in their careers. Marinaro credits them for much of the Crunch's accomplishments and sees them as the key to a Raging Rhinos championship.

"Doug is dangerous because of his speed, he can run onto almost any ball. If he had been a little more lucky so far this season he could have four or five goals already," said Marinaro, about his Crunch teammates with the Rhinos. "Tommy is the hardest worker I know. He is always up and down the field and gives a 110 percent. Zoran is simply the best one-on-one player I have ever stepped onto the field with. When the ball is at his feet, he can go by any defender he wants."

Along with his current Cleveland Crunch teammates, Marinaro has played in the past with Rochester goalkeeper Bill Andracki, who was also with Cleveland for two years before moving on to Tampa Bay. Hector believes that his past playing experience with Andracki has been invaluable in building the Raging Rhinos defense.

"Communication between Billy and myself is much easier because we know each other. The familiarity allows us to adjust to situations in games much more quickly than would happen otherwise," stated Marinaro.

He also credits the hard work of his teammates on the back line, Leon Minot and Yuri Smotrich, for the team's success defensively. "The first couple of games it was hard because Yuri doesn't speak any English. But, as time has gone on we have found ways to communicate and we have improved noticeably," remarked Marinaro. "Leon is an extremely tough and determined player. His tenacity allows him to play bigger than his size."

Hector firmly believes that with his teammates which have joined him from Cleveland and with the new faces he has met here in Rochester, the Rhinos will overcome the adversity they have faced as an expansion team and will contend for the A-League title.

"I don't think that there is a team that we have faced so far that we couldn't have beaten," said Marinaro, regarding the rest of the A-League. "With a few wins we'll be right there with them come the end of the season."

And, with Marinaro's past accomplishments it's hard to doubt him.

Hector Marinaro has taken the ball and run with it since being named captain of the Rhinos.

New Names, Old Traditions

For generations Rochester has enjoyed a rich soccer tradition. Fans have been treated to exciting matches watching the greatest international stars of all time. The tradition continues as the Rochester Rhinos take to the pitch at the newly christened Frontier Field.

Equal in tradition is Rochester's involvement in the document processing industry. For over 25 years, Kex has been a leader in bringing area organizations the stars of copying technology.

The tradition continues as Kex becomes IKON Office Solutions. IKON will continue to lead the industry as the original member of Alco Standard's office products group- the largest network of independent office equipment dealers in North America.

IKON, Frontier Field's official copier supplier, wishes the best of luck to the Rhinos in their new home. Both of our names are new, but the tradition of excellence remains the same.

SAVE THE RHINO - It's a Goal

BY T. NICHOLS

The Rochester Raging Rhinos may be new in town, but the animal we get our name from is millions of years old. With just five species existing on earth, the rhinoceros is an endangered animal threatened with extinction.

Able to adapt well in nature, these tough-skinned creatures live in Africa and Asia. They feed on grasses in the plains or in swamps. The biggest is the White Rhino, weighing in at 7,000 pounds. This grazer has the longest horns, over six feet. The Black Rhino has two horns and can run at 35 mph, but his eyesight is terrible and charges often miss. When you see a rhino you can appreciate the size and power. The Buffalo Zoo has one, Henry, a Greater One-Horned Rhino. Henry's species lives in India and Nepal and loves the water.

Rhinos are fighting a war with human poachers. Killed for their valuable horn, 90% of the earth's rhinos have disappeared since 1970. Used as medicine and as dagger handles, the rhino horn, made of keratin just like your fingernails, is illegally traded. The few wild rhinos that survive live in National Parks and Sanctuaries. The Rhino Trust listed below funds sanctuaries that protect rare rhinoceros in Kenya and Java.

Leon Minott Plays a Role On and Off the Field

Rhino Defender Adds Local Flavor

Although small in size, Leon Minott plays big on the field in helping the Rhinos keep the ball out of their net.

By Justin Roj

When talking with Rhinos defender Leon Minott you sense immediately that he is not your stereotypical professional athlete. There is calmness around him, even though he and his team are in the midst of whirlwind.

Since the Rochester Raging Rhinos kicked off their first season in the A-League, they have struggled to find their identity, at times brilliant in their play, while other times uninspired. Leon Minott is a man who knows firmly who he is and what is important to him. Dedicated to his family and his faith, Minott knows that soccer, while important, is just one piece of a much larger picture.

Born in Spanish Town, Jamaica, Leon grew up with five brothers and four sisters. Yet, he quickly became part of an even larger extended family of children who played soccer in the field across the street from his house.

"When I was two years old, the older kids used to come get me to play soccer before I could even kick the ball," said Minott, about his first experiences with the game he would grow to love. Leon's early introduction to the game fostered a passion for it. He would play almost daily as a youth.

While attending high school, Leon's daily battles with his friends across the street from his house would pay off. "I attended one of the top high schools both academically and athletically in the entire country. Because of this I gained a lot of exposure as a player on a national level," remarked Minott. That exposure turned into an offer to play for Jamaica's Junior National Team and a spot on Boydstown, one of the country's top club teams.

With both squads, Leon made the most of his opportunities. He led Boydstown to every possible championship in Jamaica in 1989, and in doing so he was named MVP of the league. His success at home did not go unnoticed, Leon was recruited by major colleges and universities across America, including Syracuse and Howard University. Yet, he chose Roberts Wesleyan College here in Rochester.

"At the time I was choosing a college, I did not know the difference between Division One, Two, or Three. So when I chose Roberts it was not a decision based on soccer, because if soccer was my priority I would not have gone to college. I decided to go to college to get my degree, so I could get a good job to help my family," stated Leon.

Minott considers Roberts Wesleyan a rewarding experience. He graduated with a bachelor's degree in accounting and met his wife, Beth, while at the school. And, it is these two things that have allowed Leon to define himself outside of the game of soccer and to find that identity for which his team is still searching.

His job with a local accounting firm in Henrietta has allowed him to work with BOCES, where he is gotten an opportunity to give back to kids what was given to him by older friends back in Jamaica so long ago. As a player, Leon credits his toughness to always being a little bit smaller and younger and having to fight harder to win balls away from his opponents. As a person, he credits his achievements to God and those who taught him how to succeed in life outside of soccer.

"I have been given so much, I just want to give back to kids what was given to me. It is so important for children, especially African-American children, to have good role models. For some of them their only role models are people in gangs, driving fancy cars and wearing fancy clothes. Driving fancy cars and wearing fancy clothes are fine, I just want to show kids there is a better way to get them," he added.

Minott's three children are a constant reminder of the role he must play. "My son, Keanen, who is four, is a soccer player himself. If he sees me wearing a certain spot on the Rhinos gives him, Leon believes that by helping kids on the field, he can better their lives off of it.

"You see young kids playing soccer and they are so talented," stated Leon, regarding his commitment to youth. "But as they grow older they seem to lose their talent and love of the game. I want to eventually coach and help kids maintain their focus on the game. I believe that they can take the hard work on the field and apply it to other parts of their life."

Religion is also a large part of Leon's life. He credits his faith for his success both on the field and off. "I can not stress enough the role God plays in my life. He has given me the ability to achieve all that I have achieved," said Leon.

Minott is confident that the Rhinos will be able to find their identity this season, just as he has found his own. "I look ahead to the rest of the season and I look at the guys around me and the other teams in the league and I'm excited.

kind of shoe, he wants it. It worries me sometimes, like it does for all parents. But, it also reminds me that I have to be a role model and carry myself properly because my kids as well as other kids look up to me," said Leon.

Soccer, he believes, is not only a way to express himself and to support his family, but his opportunity to be a role model as well. Along with the recognition his

We have struggled at times to get the chemistry that we need, but it is a learning experience. In back, Hector (Marinaro), Yuri (Smotrich), and I have worked out many of our problems and it has showed as we have improved every match. It just a matter of time before we come into our own."

Kelley, a native of Vega, V. Kury, is the first player signed to the team, and he has quickly won over fans nationwide with his degree of pure fun on the field and enthusiasm for the game of soccer off the field.

Aside from some bundled-up athletes on the soccer field and a few curious students craning their necks as they walked by, the University of Rochester's Fauer Stadium was completely deserted.

Cold vapor shot out of the soccer players' mouths as they ran through their drills. Light snow had fallen earlier that late-April day, making it hard to believe that the team's season opener was less than two weeks away.

At that point, the darkly tanned Billy Andracci may have been wondering exactly what he'd gotten himself into. For someone whose previous outdoor professional soccer career was spent in Georgia and Florida, he could sum up this frigid spring weather in one word:

Yuck.

"This is crazy," the Raging Rhinos' goalie said in disbelief. "When I first got here (in early April), we were running in rain and snow. Every day you wake up and say, 'It's going to be nice today,' and every day it's not."

Weather aside, however, Andracci is anything but a complainer. In fact, the 6-ft., 185-pound goalie gets as excited as a kid on Christmas morning when discussing the first-year Rhinos' prospects for success.

"After all is said and done, this team can compete for, and win, the

Ready for Success!

Seasoned goalie provides winning attitude for Rhinos

A-League," Andracci said. "Anything less would be a letdown."

Andracci's own abilities lend credibility to his prediction. As he begins his fifth year in professional soccer, the 27-year-old Andracci brings a diversified list of experience to the Rhinos.

Andracci, a native of Prince William, Va., was an NCAA All-American at Rutgers University in his senior season of 1992. That year he led his team to the Division I national final, and made a heroic effort in the championship game against UCLA. Andracci held the Bruins scoreless through regulation and overtime, but the Scarlet Knights came up short in a tie-breaking shootout and were defeated 1-0.

A similar experience greeted Andracci in his rookie pro season with the Tampa Bay Rowdies of the American Professional Soccer League. Though he only gave up one goal in the A-League title contest against Colorado, that was the game's only score in a 1-0 loss. Andracci finished his sparkling rookie campaign with a 1.55 goals-against average and five shutouts to net the A-League's 1992 Rookie of the Year and Goalie of the Year honors. In addition, Soccer Digest voted him Player of the Year.

Andracci spent one more year in Tampa before moving to Atlanta for the 1994 and 1995 outdoor seasons. He also owns four seasons of indoor experience, playing three years with Cleveland of the National Professional Soccer League before switching to Tampa Bay this past winter.

It was indoors that Andracci finally achieved his elusive championship: he served as backup goalie for the 1992-93 Cleveland team that captured the NPSL crown. Andracci's playing rights were recently traded to Chicago, where he plans to play in the winter of 1996-97.

In the meantime, Andracci will be an integral part of the Rhinos' defense — not only with his skills, but also with his awareness of A-League opponents.

"I'll know probably 90 percent of the guys on the other teams," he remarked. "I'll know their strengths and weaknesses, and definitely give my two cents' worth — who's going to take free kicks, how they're going to do corner kicks."

Good team chemistry further fuels Andracci's optimism about the Rhinos. "It's a great bunch of guys, everybody gets along really well. Some teams jell and some don't, but these guys are soccer-knowledgeable and they're personable, too," he said. "Everybody's ready to go. There's a lot of excitement."

An additional cause for enthusiasm is the Rhinos' scheduled move in mid-July to Frontier Field. Andracci, who can view the new facility from his downtown Rochester apartment, reports that Frontier is a perfect soccer fit for a city of this size.

"When I was playing in Tampa Stadium, that was a 70,000-seat place with 4,000-5,000 people in the stands. It seemed like there were two people out there," he remarked. "But this stadium should provide a real soccer atmosphere."

Finally, Andracci noted, he senses the general hoopla over the Rhinos' arrival in a city that has gone without pro soccer for more than a decade.

"In Tampa, we pretty much fell off the front page of the sports section. But this area, in the little time I've been here, has given the most coverage to soccer that I've seen," he said. "All these TV cameras are out to the practices. And, I think this city's dying for a championship."

Andracki hopes to return to Rochester beyond this season, saying he'd love to stay an extended period. Yet in the life of a soccer player, he also knows it's pretty hard to plan far ahead.

"I've been away from home ever since I was 17 years old. Every six months you're beginning a new set of adventures," Andracki said. "I can tell you how to get from Point A to Point B in so many cities."

He added that this nomadic existence has lost some of its appeal in recent years. "At the beginning of my playing career I wasn't too unhappy with the lifestyle, it wasn't too much of a hassle. I could live out of my car and hop from city to city every six months," he said. "Now, as you get older, you want to settle down. You want to have, if not a wife and a family, a dog or puppy — but I can't even have that. You're really a drifter. My parents live in Colorado now, and about 1 day with them that's the closest thing I have to a home."

However, he ~~lived there~~

Rhamas
management has made him feel very much
at home

"Of all the teams I've played for, this is the best in terms of treating you as a professional," he remarked. "Chris Economides and Pat Ercoli are more personal and more up-front than any general manager or coach I've ever dealt with. And in this sport I know so many guys who go to teams and when paycheck time comes, there's no paycheck."

"Of all the teams I've played for, this is the best in terms of treating you as a professional."

Andracki has no plans to scale back his playing schedule any time soon, so a return to Rochester next summer is a distinct possibility. And, after a solid winter in Tampa Bay that saw rise to the No. 1 goalie status for the first time with any indoor team, Andracki is on a big roll.

"It doesn't always show up in the goals against average, but right now my game is very good. I feel as comfortable as I have in a while, and I haven't really begun to touch the goals I've set. There are still many plateaus I want to reach."

At this point, those plateaus are all soccer-related. Andracki hopes to attain his bachelor's degree in finance over the next couple of years — he's 12 credits short — but for now, his superior athletic skills will provide the bulk of his income. "I love to play and it's my living," he concluded.

Rochester, NY 14608 1837

It started as a casual meeting between two American Hockey League owners and has subsequently turned into an all-out sports happening this summer in the city of Rochester. Rhino-mania has arrived in town, and has taken the area by storm in this soccer-rich community.

A didn't take long for Rochester Americans Hockey President and CEO Steve Donner to convince Providence Bruins Co-owner Frank DuRoss that a professional soccer team would be successful in this area. Rochester has a proud soccer tradition, one that dates back to the mid-1960's with the Rochester Lancers of the NASL and continued with the Rochester Flash in the early 1980's. The area supports over 25,000 youths that play in various organizations around the country.

Rochester has always been able to provide contending teams in the professional ranks in an area that is admittedly not a major metropolitan city but one that has a proud tradition of championship teams. From the America's Cup to the Red Wings' Stanley Cup trophies, The Rochester Knighthawks lacrosse team finished their second season of play in the MLL with their second trip to the playoffs. The Lancers captured the NASL title in 1971 and over 25 years later, the Rhinos hope to bring another professional championship crown to this city.

The unique Rhinos ownership group combines the financial, business and hockey ownership experience of DuRoss, the fifteen years of sports marketing and management of Donner, hockey and soccer and the soccer background of Chris Economides. Economides, a native of Rochester, owned the Kansas City Attack of the NPSL indoor professional league from 1991 to 1993, bringing a championship to the city in 1992-93. As general manager, Economides will assemble a team of players who combine world-class experience with a local flavor of the area's best soccer players.

The Rhinos have a 28-game regular season schedule: 14 home and 14 away. One exhibition contest against a world-class European club will be held over the summer, with other exhibition games to be scheduled as the season progresses. Rochester will play their first four home games at the University of Rochester's Fawver Stadium while Frontier Field is completed. The downtown multi-purpose stadium located on the corner of North Plymouth Avenue and Plant Street will feature 14,000 seats for soccer, 20 suites for corporate use, a picnic and party area during games and a terrific view of the skyline of downtown Rochester. The Rhinos will debut at Frontier Field on July 12, the first-ever sporting event to be held in the stadium.

So how does a northern city, well known for its beautiful summers, but better known for its brutal winters, boast a nickname of a rhino? It's easy, I swear, you see "The Raging Rhinos" was selected by a name-the team contest through Gannett Rochester newspapers with over 1,500 entries collected and 500 different names suggested. Narrowed to a list of ten names, a celebrity panel, consisting of Gannett sports columnist Bob Matthews, WROC-TV's Wanda Miller, WHEC-TV's Rich Burke, former Lancers star Catoo Miedema and Penfield high school coach John Butterworth chose four names to submit to Rhinos management, which included Rhinos, Rampage, Ravens and Roosters.

Realizing the character and marketing possibilities of the Rhinos, the team selected an animal best known for its tenacious and tough identity. "Raging" was added as a third option to the franchise name, a subtle way of telling the public that this team will not be taken for granted on the field. The Rhinos logo, a caricature of a determined rhinoceros with a soccer ball stuck on its horn, was a collaboration of ideas produced by Ned Stein of Stein Design and Bill Steinmiller of Steinmiller Design. Already a hot merchandise item around the country, Rhinowear is available in local stores at Rhinos home games.

By early March, the team had management and staff, a coach, team colors, a logo and a nickname. Now it needed players. General Manager Economides and Head Coach Pat Encoli set out to shape a team that was an offensive power—and promptly signed five defensive players. Goalkeeper Dan Andraitz led the Atlanta Kickers to the A-League championship game last season, while sweeper Rene Rivas of Brazil won a championship with S.C. Campinas in Brazil. Adding overcenter Mike O'Riordan, the Brazilian forward indoor league along with local products Tim Ashe and Leon Minott make the Rhinos a tough and defense.

will lead a group of midfielders with plenty of experience. McKay played last winter with the Blizzard in Buffalo and will team with fellow midsize players Tommy Tanner (Cleveland) and Danny Kelly (Harrisburg) to strengthen the midfield position for Coach Encoli.

Getting back to the explosive offense, it took awhile for management to supply gas to the attack, but their patience has been rewarded. The Rhinos signed forward Zoran Karic, a perennial all-star and leading scorer for the Cleveland Crunch. Cleveland teammate and winger Doug Miller was also added, along with St. John Fisher grad Darrell Stuart (a native of Laramie) and Carl Hopfinger. Expected to join the club in June is Kofi Dede, one of Ghana's brightest young stars.

Encoli, along with Assistant Coach Frank Odor, began training camp in early April. Teammates on the Lancers in the late 1970's Encoli and Odor promise a club that is exciting, hard-working and fun to watch. Encoli expects the first-year franchise to be competitive and challenge the league leaders.

The Rhinos will broadcast all games, home and away, on WHTL AM-95.1 and WBIR-TV-9.5. Don Stevens, the Voice of the Americas, will trade behind the microphone to call all of the play-by-play action. Rochester will also be seen on television this season, coast-to-coast, as Prime Network will carry an A-League Game of the Week every Friday night during the summer. The Rhinos will be featured seven times, including their home opener on May 10 and their July 12 debut at Frontier Field. Until the Empire Sports Network will carry the Prime A-League schedule, either live or on a tape-delayed basis.

Major League soccer is back in Rochester and the Raging Rhinos will charge onto the scene with exciting soccer action.

MORE AIRPLANES

Fact #1: We use more airplanes than FedEx® and UPS® combined to make sure your priority package or envelope gets to its destination.

Fact #2: We have 165,000 more trucks than FedEx and 70,000 more than UPS to make sure your priority package or envelope can be delivered to any address you want in the U.S.

Fact #3: If you prefer, you can drop off your Priority Mail™ envelope at any one of 330,000 locations. That's 295,000 more than FedEx and 250,000 more than UPS.

Fact #4: Unlike FedEx and UPS, you don't have to make a special call for a Priority Mail pick-up. Your everyday postal letter carrier can see that it gets the attention it deserved.

Fact #5: Priority Mail delivers to every address and P.O. Box in the U.S. FedEx doesn't. UPS doesn't.

FREE SATURDAY DELIVERY

Fact #6: Priority Mail gives you Saturday delivery at no extra charge. FedEx doesn't. UPS doesn't.

A MOMENT OF ANTICIPATION. A SEASON OF INSPIRATION.

It's been years in the making. But the birth of a professional soccer system in North America has given hundreds of our best players a reason to take their games to the next level.

At the heart of it all stands the A-League. And as its official sponsor, Umbro salutes every player who is testing his skills against some of the best young talent in the world. Your struggle and dedication will inspire millions to reach for their own personal best.
